

Please keep jailbreaking legal so others and myself have the freedom to make our phones safer to use. I try to use my phone as little as possible when driving in my vehicle. Having the ability to jailbreak my phone allows me to easily turn on my Bluetooth function through voice control without even having to look at my phone. This way I can leave my phone in the cradle without ever having to touch it. If jailbreaking became illegal I would not be able to do this, and would have to fumble through my phone settings to turn on my Bluetooth. Jailbreaking can not only allow a person to make this type of modification to make the phone safer to use, but can also open doors for modifications to be made to make phones easier to use, and more useful for those with disabilities.
