

Hello,

My name is Mike LoVerme and I am writing about class of works 5 - Jailbreaking Exemptions for phones and tablets. Speaking as a user who does root phones I would like to show my support for a continuing exemption. Being able to root/jailbreak your device allows to take full advantage of all the things it can offer. For example, I often like to try different ROMs (customized operating systems) for my phone. When constantly switching between them, it could take a long time to set them up but because my phone is rooted – I can do a system backup of it to restore any ROM I have used in a matter of minutes instead of hours. Without rooting your device, you would not be able to backup the operating system – or any of the user data on the phone.

Sincerely,

Mike LoVerme
