I think the DMCA and the DVD/DeCSS issue are totally blown out of perspective by the MPAA. All that these companies are trying to do is to protect the billions of dollars they make on overpriced cds and dvds. They are trying to control every aspect of the market by simply suing everybody within their reach. This is, in my opinion, totally unjustified and should not be tolerated by anybody. I also do not understand what the whole purpose of blocking sites offering DeCSS is. Everybody that wants DeCSS has already gotten it anyway. Even if there is still people out there that don't have it, the MPAA will never be able to stop the distribution of this program no matter how many people they sue or threaten. To make this whole letter simple; Screw the DMCA and especially screw the MPAA.
