

Products to exempt:

All commercial CD's released now and all commercial CD's to be released in the future.

All commercial DVD's released now and all commercial DVD's to be released in the future.

All music/movie/entertainment to be released in the future in any digital form.

Reason to exempt:

When I purchase a product I should be able to use it on my entertainment systems ANY way I choose. This includes my computer. If people are copying and distributing these products then the companies should go and prosecute those individuals and our government should NOT punish everyone by enacting this ridiculous legislation. Just look at the results of SONY's DRM rootkit as an example of how these corporations have no respect for the individual's rights and property. SONY's actions also all too plainly show the folly of what the results of this legislation will be. Countless home computer systems destroyed based on corporate greed.
