

I support the exemption for jail-breaking smartphone/tablets and video game consoles. I am user, hobbyist, and elementary programmer who enjoys legally optimizing my products to work at their greatest potential. I would especially like to show my support for the legal authority to jailbreak smartphones, including the iPhone. If I lost the capability to jailbreak such devices, as I student of technology, I loose my right to research and study the devices that fuel my career field.