

Jailbreak should not be made illegal. Ios has made user's customizability very limited. Jailbreak should be left legal. Each and every user wants his/her device to have their own special add ons and other stuff that gives the identity to each and every user. I am basically jailbreaking each and every device that i have except the ipod touches. iPad 2, iPhone 4/4s all work fine with jailbreaks. I love jailbreaking as it is like giving me a chance to enjoy the ios'es functionality while adding more add ons to it to make it more useful to me. If jailbreak never existed, i most probably will have no apps in my apple devices as the app store in this country makes it super limited to me. i cant buy almost any apps. the tweaks that most jailbrokeed cydia apps give me more freedom. i basically can install anything that apple have not implemented in the ios. apple, you suck when it comes to implementing new things.
