

To Whomever It May Concern,

I would like to comment about extending the law to have the ability to jailbreak my iPhone and iPad freely. I am a consumer, and I paid for it and I should do whatever I want to it. I want to ensure that it is not illegal to use the product however I want. By tinkering with my iDevices, it allows me to use applications, and tweaks that Apple doesn't want or hasn't approved yet. But it is what I want and need to have. Most jailbreak applications allow my device to function "better". Some jailbreak tweaks eventually make it into the official OS later on. So please, let me continue to use the device that I paid for, the way I want.

Sincerely,

Hue Truong
