

Commenter: Juba Vainio

Identification of class of works: Exemption to Prohibition on Circumvention of Copyright Protection Systems for Access Control Technologies

Summary: The foundation of both computers and internet relies on the ability and ease of copying and distributing information. Every law that does not recognize this fundamental fact is doomed to become a failure.

Factual support:

The foundation of both computers and internet relies on the ability and ease of copying and distributing information. Every law that does not recognize this fundamental fact is doomed to become a failure.