

I support the ability to jailbreak/root any and all purchased electronic devices(Numbers 3, 4, and 5). As a hobbyist, I spend a great deal of my free time involved in modifying and improving the functionality of my electronic devices. If I have paid for a device, it is mine to do with as I please. Also: allowing this exemption to expire will impede progress and innovation in the technology industry. Both Google and Apple have copied functionality into their mobile operating systems that was first introduced by jailbroken/rooted modifications.

Thank you for your time.
