Item 3. Statement Regarding Proposed Exemption

A consumer who buys a DVD, or Blu-ray (BD) disc should have the right to create or access a digital copy in electronic form so it can be used on their devices that do not have an optical disc drive for free. Furthermore consumers who buy digital content should have first sale rights like any other asset they purchase. Technology exists today that can ensure an exchange or sale of digital content is contained to the parties of the transaction so there is no reason, except greed, to not provide same first sale rights consumers have in the physical world in the digital world.
