Comment:	this measure of COLC on access controls if the exemption continues will allow third party 3dprinting materials will be able to support the livelihood of more jobs, however when you only allow a certain brand to use certain branded resources in something in a manufacturing technology like 3dprinting it further only limits what it can do for the economy,&less opportunities for people, & if this current existing exemption continues it would make working in America easier for material scientists & scientists creativity that needs to fill in the talent gap, needed to actually make America have a successful future, but if any company gets to chose which jobs are allowed to be involved with the product which would be very anti competitive ,& would result in closing off a whole industry of material science in 3dprinting and thats whats circumstances is going on within this case
