My opinion on the DMCA.

I believe that such an act is unconstitutional.

It removes my right to do as I please with software I have purchased or obtained(freeware).

Such an act can only serve to harm the consumer and further empower the already gestapo like corporations.

Such an example would be that of the MPAA and their ridiculous pursuit to end the distribution of a program called DeCSS. This program allows people to watch DVD's on OS's that otherwise have no support for DVD playback.

Such a program is a god send for those of us choosing to use that alternative operating system. Trying to deny me the right to use that program or even link to it on my web site, will only cause more problems.

The DMCA is a law that should never have been passed and now that it has been, it needs to be revoked.
