and is temporarily unavailable.

The U.S. Copyright Office is revising its procedure for examining secure tests. The new procedure is expected to go into effect in June 2017. No appointments will be scheduled until then. In the meantime, you may establish an effective date of registration by properly filing a standard application through the electronic registration system, paying the $55 filing fee, and uploading a redacted copy of the entire secure test. The redacted copy should include the title page of the test (if any), and redacted copy of each page of questions. A registration specialist will contact you with further instructions related to completing the examination.

We apologize for the inconvenience.
