

Please do not raise the prices for filing images for copyright. The internet has already made stealing images a common place occurrence. The new fees would make more photographers and artists more hesitant to apply for the protection of the US government.