

i think the best course of action would be to make copyright registration an easier process, thus resulting in more registrations, producing more income. making the process more expensive is not the right thing at this time in my opinion.